

Ulelena rejected me thoroughly as I child. Or maybe I
it. That's never been dear to me.

I came back later - for perspective, clarity, closure ... I wasn't sure. It turned out I'd wanted to feel belonging ~~That first~~ in my hometown.

David was the first place I found that.

I'd wandered down to the museum, no plan in sight.
~~later~~ An hour and a half later, I ~~walked home~~ walked home with a smile and several book recommendations for exploring my interests in Carl Jung and humanism.

David taught me that ~~curiosity~~ the mind of a seeker is never alone, that curiosity belongs wherever she travels.

Many thanks to David from Max Dunbar David was an incredible human in this life.

He always spoke so positively of others of anyone! Even if it was some juicy gossip he still made sense and expressed sensitivity. He has passed from this life but he's not gone, he's on the astral plane and he might check in from time to time

David arrived in my life before I knew I needed him, and then just... stayed. I always knew where to find him based on the time of day, and could always count on great conversation a sense of kinship, and a well thought out book recommendation He will be missed for so many reasons, but especially for the sense of Home that he carried.
